

Sustainable Renovation for Puerto Rico

Transparency Report: One Year After Hurricane María

September 2017 to September 2018

Puerto Rico Community Recovery Fund

The Puerto Rico Community Foundation dedicates this “Transparency Report: One Year After María” to community first responders, nonprofit organizations that were on the frontline during and after Hurricane María. These organizations transcended their missions and went over and beyond their line of work responding to the emergency. We also exalt the courage, determination and commitment of these organizations that, in collaboration with their communities, are designing and executing a sustainable and resilient future. We honor those philanthropic and private organizations and individuals that have contributed to Puerto Rico’s sustainable renovation.

 MISSION AND VISION

A Year Filled with Challenges and Opportunities

JORGE RAMÍREZ PORTELA

We are very grateful for the support received from our peer organizations on the mainland, the community foundations; and the private foundations, corporations, families and individuals who held us very close to their hearts during this difficult situation.

Hurricane María was an unfortunate natural event that brought to light the immense inequity gaps that exist in the most vulnerable communities on the island and the exposure of the Caribbean in the face of such phenomena. As a community foundation, we knew from the very first moment, that we were going to assume two key roles: 1) support communities' first responders –the community-based organizations that were on the frontline providing immediate relief and, as time proved, are undertaking an important role in building a resilient infrastructure in their communities; and 2) become a reliable source for donors interested in supporting our island. To facilitate our roles, the Puerto Rico Community Foundation re-activated the Puerto Rico Community Recovery Fund –used in the past to support in the aftermath of Hurricane Georges and to support the Latino community in New York after 9/11.

We are very grateful for the support received from our peer organizations on the mainland, the community foundations; and the private foundations, corporations, families and individuals who held us very close to their hearts during this difficult situation. Thanks to all of you, one year after Hurricane María, we are proud to say that the Puerto Rico Community Recovery Fund has received over $12.5 million.

We thank our dedicated staff, who amid their personal circumstances were ready to work from the very first day. We also want to thank and recognize the role of our Board of Directors, that allowed us to keep our work going steady and in a fast pace, and whose engagement is still palpable in every community visit.

This “Transparency Report: One Year After Hurricane María,” honors all our supporters and the resilient communities in Puerto Rico.

From the Strong Winds to the Immediate Recovery

The urgent and supportive response to Puerto Rico's suffering

The devastation caused by Hurricane María changed the life course of every Puerto Rican. Following that unforgettable date, September 20, 2017, which compounded to the damage caused by Irma, just two weeks earlier, Puerto Ricans on the island and on the mainland faced an island with an uncertain and worrisome panorama. For the first time in our history we had more than 10 organizations visiting the foundation every day, requesting grants to buy equipment that would allow them to remove debris and facilitate road access to remote communities. These were the community’s first responders, those in the front line serving their communities with everything from providing food to health care.

One year after that terrible day, we are starting to see how nature is recovering its way and forgetting about the strong winds that left it barely naked. Meanwhile, communities took the lead in the immediate recovery and are still very much in the front-line of the sustainable renovation of their future.

Sustainable Renovation

An intervention to empower communities' most vital infrastructure

The tropical cyclones of September 2017 revealed communities in Puerto Rico lacking equal access to basic resources such as water, power, housing, education, and ways to propel economic development and have access to food. In response to the new reality and, after the immediate relief phase, the Puerto Rico Community Foundation designed a strategy to target the inequity gap in communities lacking basic service infrastructures and to empower them to develop sustainable renovation strategies.

In the pages to follow you will see a recount of these activities.

WATER: A major challenge

OUR WATER infrastructure collapsed, leaving the vast majority of our population without this precious liquid, thus making it a challenge to find drinkable water. Our first intervention in this area was possible through a community-based organization in Yauco – Centro de Microempresas y Tecnologías Agrícolas (CMTAS). They requested a grant to dig a water well on their premises to benefit the community. The water well is still up and running.

This initial grant led us to focus our strategy on the 240 community aqueducts that exists in rural communities in 45 municipalities. By September 30, 2018 we were able to work with 19 of them with our intervention, ranging from the opportunity to provide a solar energy infrastructure in Río Chiquito Community Aqueduct in Ponce, to a solar storage infrastructure in

Food: Growing our crops

IN 2014, Puerto Rico was importing 85%¹ of what is consumed on the island. After Hurricane María, food was lacking in supermarkets and our local crops were destroyed. We set out to identify community-based organizations that were working vigorously on growing crops, all the way from coffee to short-term hydroponics. That led us to provide a $50,000 grant to Casa Pueblo for Madre Isla, one of its social enterprises that harvests and markets coffee. And most recently, a grant to P.E.C.E.S, a non-profit organization that will be growing lettuce in a controlled hydroponic environment as a social enterprise that will lead the way to start a local market in their Punta Santiago community, in Humacao.

RENEWABLE ENERGY: Taking advantage of the natural resource

PUERTO RICO'S energy source is centralized. 100% of our population lacked power after the hurricane. Many waited up to 10 months to receive this essential service. Due to our tropical nature, we have sunshine most of the year; the shared thought was to collaborate with communities in taking advantage of this natural resource. We took a two-pronged approach: 1) to provide community health clinics with a solar energy infrastructure to power up their emergency rooms and; 2) to empower communities to become energy independent.

Community Health Clinics (330 Center):
Energy a life-saving resource

COMMUNITY HEALTH clinics, which are commonly known as 330 Centers, became the lifesavers of many in the communities. These clinics, with limited resources and mostly located in rural communities, were the only hope for many suffering from life threatening illness, some of which became imminent after the hurricane like the leptospirosis.

spirosis and dengue¹. A strong relationship was quickly forged following the hurricane with the Puerto Rico Primary Care Association Network, which serves the community health clinics. Through an alliance with the Association, we have been able to provide a solar energy infrastructure to 24 community health clinic emergency rooms.

Solar Communities: Energy independent communities

ENERGY IS a vital resource to the most vulnerable communities throughout our island; health, nutrition and even water are moved and nurtured by this source. When Toro Negro, a rural community in the mountainous region of Ciales, approached the Puerto Rico Community Foundation to request a grant to build the first solar community on the island, we were sure to step in. The community, with a strong community organizing track record under Toro Negro, Inc. was going to act upon a decision made even before the hurricane. With the collaboration of Somos Solar, today there are 28 homes connected to a series of micro-grids that form the first solar community on the island.

HOUSING:
A family’s most valuable asset homes with blue tarps one year after the disaster, according to media articles. The house is the most valuable asset a family has and in Puerto Rico this asset is at risk, if not lost.

The Puerto Rico Community Foundation approached the issue by supporting Community Housing Development Organizations (CHDOs) in the rehabilitation process. A two-fold intervention was designed: 1) the support of a specific community through a collective impact approach; and (2) house rehabilitation throughout the island.

The Puerto Rico Community Foundation has a long-standing relationship with Loíza. We stepped in to collaborate in the rehabilitation of homes, where more than 1,000 had suffered some type of damage, whereas by last May, over 600 remained with blue tarps. We were able to give a grant to Instituto para el Desarrollo Socioeconómico y de Vivienda de Puerto Rico Inc. (INDESovi) to rehabilitate 37 homes initially. Since last May, 10 houses have been rehabilitated

In alliance with the Loíza Municipality and Ricky Martin Foundation

ALSO, a $1.3 million grant was awarded to five CHDO's to rehabilitate approximately 87 houses islandwide.

COMMUNITY ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT: Moving the economy from the bottom-up

COMMUNITY ECONOMIC development has been an area of interest for the Puerto Rico Community Foundation for more than a decade. With more than 30,000 jobs lost after the hurricanes, according to media articles, we set out to support community-based organizations that focused on job generation, including incubators and accelerators. We gave support to four nonprofit organizations that are creating social enterprises to be self-sufficient. These are Instituto Nueva Escuela, Panadería El Río PT, CREAARTE Inc., y Aguas Frescas PT. Also, we are supporting community economic incubators with donations: Casa Sin Fronteras Inc., Proyecto Matria, PECES, OPDH, CMTAS, Surcos- Centro Sor Isolina and ICOOP (UPR).

EDUCATION: Facilitating school supplies

SCHOOLS in Puerto Rico remained closed for almost three months, many because they remained in use as shelters to families and others because they did not have electricity and/or water services or because they were left in very bad conditions. Organizations and individual donors approached us from the mainland wanting to provide school supplies for the beginning of the school year. More than 1,300 school bags were given out to more than 37 public schools.

Emergency Funds and Fiscal Sponsors

WHILE OUR immediate response and renovation phases were taking place, and amid the tremendous support received from donors on the mainland, there were a few that understood a community foundation's philanthropic advisory role in structuring and administering scholarship funds and donor advised funds with specific purposes. A total of six funds were established.

Emergency Funds

Artisan Aid Fund (Fondo Ayuda al Artesano)

Established by Plaza Las Americas Foundation to provide emergency grants to artisans to acquire equipment and materials to resume their work.

Blackwood 2014 Trust Fund

Was established by the Blackwood 2014 Trust to provide emergency grants to individuals working at the Royal Isabela Hotel, Costa Isabela Partners, Inc. and TR Management Isabela, LLC

DLC Ogilvy Hurricane Relief Fund

Established with a major gift from Ogilvy Foundation, this fund was established to provide emergency grants to individuals working in advertising agencies: De la Cruz & Associates, Key Integrated Solutions and Veintinueve de Febrero, Inc.

Hispanic Federation Puerto Hurricane Relief Fund

Established to provide emergency grants to college students throughout the island.

Puerto Rico Community Foundation main office in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Mission

To develop the capacities of communities in Puerto Rico to accomplish their social transformation and economic self-sufficiency, stimulating investment in the communities and maximizing the yield of each contribution.

Vision

To produce tangible and measurable impact on the communities we support; to increase significantly our endowment fund; to offer donors the widest possible portfolio of attractive and up-to-date services that will place us as the most effective vehicle for philanthropy; to maintain an efficient operation focused on maximizing the yield of our efforts; and to be recognized in Puerto Rico and internationally an example of a successful community foundation.
